White male, approximately 6 feet tall, thin to medium build, no facial hair, wearing a red hooded sweatshirt under a green zip-up fleece, blue denim jeans, and black sandals.

NARRATIVE:

On April 1, 2014 at approximately 1330 hours, the Burlington Police Department responded to Dot's Market in the Old North End of Burlington for a report of an attempted robbery. The clerk there reported that a white male, approximately 6 feet tall, thin to medium build, no facial hair, wearing a red hooded sweatshirt under a green zip-up fleece, blue denim jeans, and black sandals had come into the store and attempted to take money from the cash drawer.

The clerk closed the drawer when the suspect attempted to reach into it and the suspect fled without obtaining any money, fleeing eastbound on Archibald Street towards Intervale Avenue; the clerk was not injured in the course of the attempted robbery.

At this time any person who has information regarding the suspect's identity or whereabouts is encouraged to contact the Burlington Police Department or CrimeStoppers.

Attempted robbery is punishable by up to 15 years incarceration.
